The first 10-months - THE FACTS

On the first day of Christmas a bookmaker proved to us that their online and in-shop security was impressive, because they can identify potential winners within 7-10 bets and in some cases online before one bet using lovation. NB: How does that happen legally? It doesn't.

NB: FACT means it's happened

The first 10-months - THE FACTS

On the second day of Christmas a bookmaker proved to us that their online and in-shop security was not very impressive at identifying people with gambling problems despite the same system working perfectly for winners. NB: How does that happen? Better ask them, but we bet they don't tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

NB: FACT means it's happened

The first 10-months - THE FACTS

On the third day of Christmas a bookmaker proved to us that their customer service staff are absolutely useless unless you are depositing money or you are a VIP client. NB: In the case of some companies we think we may have evidence that they train their customer service staff to lie.

NB: FACT means it's happened

On the fourth day of Christmas a bookmaker proved to us that you'll only be able to bet at SP on horse racing if you try to take a good price in the morning more than three times. NB: In the case of one company this may happen within 90 minutes of opening an account. Fortunately, they have new owners and may grow up?

The first 10-months - THE FACTS

On the fifth day of Christmas a bookmaker proved to us that they dislike honouring best odds guaranteed promotions if your horse drifts and it wins, and they are keen to get rid of you as a customer. NB: They will try to do this retrospectively and tell you this is legal. It is not and make sure you get paid out correctly.

The first 10-months - THE FACTS

On the sixth day of Christmas a bookmaker proved to us that their risk management is purely discriminatory as they took a bet of £10 at 8-1 on a particular horse off one person, but not another within two seconds. NB: They will tell the authorities and anybody else who will listen that it is risk management, but how can a risk of £80 change within two seconds? By the way we did it a few times and it is recorded for evidence.

The first 10-months - THE FACTS

On the seventh day of Christmas a bookmaker proved to us that their PR spokesperson didn't tell the whole truth when on TV.
 NB: If you say a horse is available to back at 2-1 for a maximum of £100.00, you should say that the offer only applies to people who are regarded as poor bettors, because others can only get £1.00 laid or less.

The first 10-months - THE FACTS

On the eighth day of Christmas a bookmaker PR person proved to us that certain phrases mean nothing, so don't insult our intelligence by using them. NB: 'Being knocked over', means something or someone hits you and you fall over. 'Shrewdie' means somebody who can't place a bet with you, not one who's just got a bet on.

The first 10-months - THE FACTS

On the ninth day of Christmas a bookmaker proved to us that a high quality perfectly clear scan is impossible to see when you want to withdraw your winnings. NB: Identity checks dictated by social responsibility guidelines are there for good reason, not to be abused for financial management by a bookmaker.

The first 10-months - THE FACTS

On the tenth day of Christmas a bookmaker proved to us that they think they have a right to ask for full details of your income and expenditure without saying why they are incapable of deciding who you are based on masses of information they have already collected. NB: It would be polite to tell someone why you are doing this and to offer to pay their costs if any suspicions are proven incorrect. Why should the genuine customer pay for this?

The first 10-months - THE FACTS

On the eleventh day of Christmas a bookmaker proved to us that they write promotional terms and conditions for gamers that are so complex that you will probably not get paid out if you win, but nothing will be said if you lose. NB: We really mean this; we hope the 'Competition and Markets Authority' put a stop to this in 2017 and the 'Gambling Commission' fine companies who continue to confuse.

The first 10-months - THE FACTS

On the twelfth day of Christmas 95% of bookmakers proved to us that they think they have a licence that means they can only trade with losers, which is a redefinition of gambling and has the morals of the sewer. NB: Even the sewers get cleaned out now and again, but it does need a strong stomach and determination.
