

The last 7-days in the gambling world

A fairly quiet week due to the general election, but still negative publicity:

- Largest independent bookmaker warns staff who to vote for or else
- Gambling; research and public health, and how the bookies are not helping
- If you're a criminal we welcome you as a bookie affiliate
- Should teaching school pupils about problem gambling using untested methods sponsored by bookmakers be allowed
- How online casinos rob customers
- Children as young as 11 years gambling in North East Lincolnshire

The following are all the links to the media coverage proving we're not making it up. Instant hyperlinks are on our website: <https://justiceforpunters.org/weekly-news-summaries-on-the-gambling-industry/> ps: Does NOT include all the media coverage of violence and robberies in betting shops. From memory there's been about 5-6 incidents this week.

https://www.theguardian.com/uk-news/2017/jun/12/jennings-racing-boss-warned-staff-of-fobts-crack-down-if-tories-lost-fixed-odds-betting-terminals-election?CMP=share_btn_tw

http://theconversation.com/why-healthcare-services-have-a-problem-with-gambling-75317?utm_term=Autofeed&utm_campaign=Echobox&utm_medium=Social&utm_source=Twitter#link_time=1497358280

<http://www.gamblingcommission.gov.uk/news-action-and-statistics/news/2017/Joint-operation-results-in-reduction-of-gambling-adverts-placed-on-illegal-websites.aspx>

<https://sbcnews.co.uk/latestnews/2017/06/16/abb-scottish-gambling-stakeholders-launch-merkinch-gamble-support-week/>

<http://www.bbc.co.uk/programmes/b08tbf6f>

<http://www.grimsbytelegraph.co.uk/children-as-young-as-11-years-gambling-in-north-east-lincolnshire/story-30392757-detail/story.html>